
Optimum filtration quality

Meltblown

Meltblown media are manufactured on the basis of polyester and therefore guarantee a significantly longer service life than cellulose media. Compared to single-ply cellulose medium, the Meltblown medium has several plies with a gradient structure. A special “melt-blow” process creates very fine fibers that make possible a very large pore volume in the finished filter media. The media are optimally adapted to the requirements of the vehicle manufacturer.