Product categories: an overview on the portfolio

Bosch quality: premium repair service by professionals for professionals

At Bosch Electronic Service, highly skilled electronics specialists repair thousands of Bosch components every year. In order to determine the thermal and temporal resilience, these components are subject to the same stress tests applied during their production. Having access to genuine and original circuit diagrams, Bosch is able to provide a depth of testing only the manufacturer himself can provide.

Bosch warranty for electronic components

As one of the world's leading OE suppliers and developers of electronic vehicle components, Bosch promises accordingly high quality. A 1-year warranty is granted for repaired components and 2 years for remanufactured products supplied as advance replacement.

2 x professional service: Repair or remanufactured device

By means of two different repair types, Bosch Electronic Service meets the workshops' specific demands. In case of repairs, all faults detected on the device sent in are repaired and good functional condition is restored – at the fixed price previously assessed. In case of advance replacement, workshops receive a complete and remanufactured component – including all wearing parts.

Electronic repairs: Professional service fitting perfectly
