Painted my calipers

So I decided to paint my calipers straight, but later discovered the seller has the same curved font for high temp sprays since I don't track my car.

Lowered my car yesterday evening, might be too low at the front for me. We will see how I can live with it for a while.

Lightly modded for me please.

Did you remove the calipers or mask them up while still mounted to the car to paint them?

First poster here. Had my calipers painted by the company who almost exclusively repairs all of the high end exotic cars for dealers in the Atlanta and surrounding area, located in Smyrna, Georgia, called Magnum Collision. My SL65 is 2007 with 9,500 miles, Capri Blue. Painted the calipers to match with silver stenciling. They did such a great job, I am going to take my wifes SL65 Designo Mystic White to have hers done as well. Will paint the calipers Mystic White with Red Stenciling. Since this is my first time posting, can someone tell me how to attach or send the pics to show? I do not facebook, tweet etc. Thanks.
