I didn't, I knew right away that I was more talented than him then I started my own shop. If you have a talent, use to your own advantage.

Well Im only going to work at Best Buy for 4 more months, then Im back to Harlem, NYC. Im not tellin my manager Im leaving. Im just going to quit at the end of summer.

Additional hours. You'll get to cover shifts for the losers who need to be bailed out. After covering their shifts you'll go and bail out the losers. You'll get to drive the losers to and from work until their court date, and then you'll get to drive them to court.

The fat girl with really bad acne and a tattoo that reads "FUCK THIS JOB" who you drove to her court date will press rape charges against you so that her real babydaddy won't be mad that she got knocked-up.

Somebody you've never seen before will shoot you in the parking lot after closing one night because he was told you were carrying the deposit.

It's not a bad gig....

Remain humble. And remember, everyone gets promoted to their highest level of incompetence.

We only berate you when you ask for positive identification. As if we keep 6.6Billion pieces of negative identification in our wallets.

Given a typewriter and enough time, I am sure that you could retype everything ever typed on the OT.
